with the facts sees nothing but trouble arising from whisky, and the mixing of white men with the squaws, which has unfortunately been intensified by Indian remembrance of gross outrages endured at the Lands of the military in the post.

The first trouble there was the result of military murders, which the Government should now investigate, and, if possible, punish the perpetrators. General Davis might be induced to tell before a Court of Inquiry who gave the first whisky to the Indian chiefs and the trouble that foilowed by drunken officers in command, neglecting to withdraw previous orders.
